Open Access Publishing Seminar : November 17th , GP V714, 10-11am

You are invited to the Open Access Publishing Seminar (incl. morning tea).

Location: GP V714

Date: 17th November 2010

Time: 10am – 11am

Presenter: Paula Callan, QUT eResearch Access Coordinator

This session will give an overview of the various options available for providing Open Access, it will introduce some reputable open access publishers (e.g. BioMed Central, PLoS, Hindawi) and explain the financial support available from QUT Library to cover the cost of article processing fees for articles published by 'Gold' Open Access journals.

Find out the answers to these questions :

- What is Open Access?
- How does it benefit the author?
- What should I be looking for in a publisher?

Please register at <http://libcat.qut.edu.au/record=g1000221>

Growing Knowledge : The Evolution of Research at British Library web-site

Growing Knowledge : The Evolution of Research

<<http://www.growingknowledge.bl.uk/Default.aspx>

> is an exhibition at the British Library showcasing innovative research tools.

There are seven videos of presentations about the changing face of research and a web page with links to online tools that may be useful.

But the best bit is the Start researching section which has links to some wonderfully interesting research projects. Check out the brain mapping and timescapes, but there are lots of other things to amuse.

Nature Network
A community for scientists

Collaboration is core to research in science, technology and medicine. Online social media should therefore present great opportunities for researchers to obtain a wider audience of potential collaborators than ever before. Nature Network shows how only a single platform is needed for scientists to connect, discuss and disseminate information to communities of researchers they may not have otherwise encountered.

Web of Science (Thomson Reuter) 1980-1991 : now available

QUT Library has purchased the back-file to Thomson Reuters Web of Science for the years 1980-1991 inclusive.
