Learning and teaching

More than 193,000 faculty-specific sessions and learning resources to support students

11,261 individual assistances, including 4,653 chat sessions

1,160 students attended 94 researching and referencing sessions

Research support

62,205 full text works in QUT ePrints

3,402 attendees at 228 research training sessions

63 published datasets in Research Data Finder

On campus

More than 1.8 million campus library visits—that’s 6,798 entries on average every day (Monday to Friday)

302,296 visits to the 24/7 space (Level 2, GP library)

More than 261,000 physical resources

Over 2,800 seats available

Digital campus/online

More than 2.6 million visits to the library website

More than 1.2 million ebooks

More than 630,000 views of online unit readings

60,825 people from 196 countries accessed QUT Digital Collections

Students attended 94 researching and referencing sessions

Learning and teaching resources:
- 3,872,629 visits to cite|write
- 298,172 visits to online library guides
- 173,800 visits to Study Smart

The level of service is absolutely amazing. I am studying remotely, but I still feel very well supported by the staff (just like any other student who has direct access to the library). Big thumbs up for the library staff.

"I'll totally be recommending your catered sessions to any colleagues who want to improve their students' research skills."

The online chat is extremely helpful and a life saver. I'd Googled my question many times and was unable to find the answer, so this is great.

They listened fully to what my problem was and offered great solutions to solve it. They knew their stuff and paved the way for me to learn how to better my research questions. Very nice and polite.

The university for the real world®