3.1.6 Accessibility of Information Resources

1. Principles

QUT Library is committed to providing access to its collections in compliance with the QUT Disability Services Policy, and QUT’s legislative obligations. The Library responds in a timely manner to requests for disability-related accommodations when information resources available via the Library are not accessible to a student or staff member with a disability.

2. Services for Accessing Electronic Information Resources

2.1. Databases, electronic journals, electronic books and other resources

QUT Library selects and implements online information resources giving consideration to the needs of students with disabilities.
Where required, additional arrangements will be made to provide particular resources in a format to suit the student. Library clients requiring assistance to access online information resources should contact the Library HelpDesk.

2.2. QUT Readings

For units undertaken by students with a visual impairment, the Library provides a text version of digitised copyright readings to facilitate ease of use with screen reading software.

2.3. Assistive technology rooms

Assistive technology rooms are located in the Gardens Point and Kelvin Grove Campus Libraries and are equipped with specialised computing equipment enabling students with a disability to independently access the various electronic media. Location details for the Assistive technology rooms are available from the Library website.

Library clients requiring assistance to access this service should contact the Equity Section.

3. Services for Accessing Print and Audio-Visual Materials

3.1. Retrieval

Library staff are available to retrieve library materials for clients with disabilities. Library clients requiring assistance with retrieval should contact the Library Helpdesk.

3.2. Assistive Technology Equipment

Equipment is available to adapt print materials to a format to suit the student. Location details for the Assistive technology rooms are available from the Library website.

Library clients requiring assistance to access this service should contact Disability Services.

3.3. Alternative Formatting

Where required, Disability Services will arrange for required reading textbooks to be supplied in a format to suit the student.

Library clients requiring assistance to access this service should contact Disability Services.

3.4. Audio-Visual Materials

Where possible, QUT Library selects online video resources which include transcripts of the audio portion of the program.

Library Clients requiring further assistance should contact Disability Services.
