

Dear [insert name]

The enclosed publication agreement relates to the article [insert title of article] which has been accepted for publication in [insert journal name].

As an employee of Queensland University of Technology, I am obliged to comply with the University's Intellectual Property Policy:

Intellectual Property Policy: http://www.mopp.qut.edu.au/D/D_03_01.jsp#D_03_01.05.mdoc

Under the terms of the Intellectual Property Policy, the University claims an irrevocable non-exclusive licence to use scholarly works authored by staff for teaching and research purposes and to communicate the author's version of that work online via the University's open access digital repository. Any subsequent publication agreement or assignment of copyright entered into by a QUT author is subject to the terms of the pre-existing non-exclusive licence.

The version made available via the digital repository is the author's 'accepted manuscript' version (the final post peer review draft) unless the publisher indicates that the 'version of record' (copy-edited formatted version) may be used for this purpose. The University will also agree to publisher-requested embargoes of 12 months or less (from date of publication) on the publication of the manuscript via the digital repository.

In order to ensure compliance with my employer's policy I have attached an addendum to the enclosed publishing agreement retaining, on behalf of all the authors, the right to:

- Deposit a copy of the accepted manuscript version of the article, including graphics and any modifications made as a result of the peer review process, in Queensland University of Technology's institutional repository (QUT ePrints <http://eprints.qut.edu.au>)
- To enable open access to this manuscript version no later than 12 months after the date of publication in the journal.

If the QUT addendum is not acceptable, please provide an alternative publishing agreement that allows me to comply with the obligations described above.

(Signature of corresponding author on behalf of all authors)
